Website Terms of Use

Introduction

This website provides general information about Acrusure CC and its services. Using it does not by itself create an advice mandate, an insurance contract or cover.

Information and instructions

Website content is not personalised financial advice. Quotations, cover and policy changes are subject to individual assessment, insurer acceptance and the relevant written documentation. Sending an enquiry or document does not by itself create, amend, renew or cancel insurance.

We aim to keep information accurate and current, but it may change. Please contact us to verify important details. Applicable policy wording, schedules and legally operative agreements govern the relevant transaction.

Website use

Website content, branding and other materials may be used only as permitted by law or with the relevant rights-holder's permission. Users must not interfere with website security or operation. External websites have their own content, terms and privacy practices.

Privacy and cookies

Personal information submitted through the website is handled under our Privacy Policy. Cookie, analytics and embedded-service information must reflect the technologies actually used. Optional tracking and marketing choices must not be treated as accepted merely because a visitor opens the website.

Do not submit passwords, banking PINs or other secret authentication information through website forms. Browser controls may restrict cookies, although this may affect functionality.

Contact and applicable law

South African law applies, subject to mandatory protections. Nothing in these terms removes a right or excludes liability that cannot lawfully be excluded. Contact admin@acrusure.co.za or +27 64 552 2816 for website enquiries.
